

DESERET
Morning News

People on the move

Published: September 30, 2007

- James A. Hewlett has been named general manager of the Intermountain Power Agency, replacing Reed T. Searle, who will retire after serving as general manager since 1989. The change is effective Dec. 1. Hewlett joined IPA in 1981, serving as chief financial officer and assistant general manager. He has directed the agency's financing and investment activities for 20 years.

- Craig Skidmore has been named vice president of internal affairs and strategy for Lindon-based Power Innovations Int'l. He has more than 20 years of experience in marketing, strategy, financial analysis and organizational development. He worked more than 10 years as a management consultant and was a vice president of marketing and/or chief operations officer for several high-tech companies.

- Steve Hobbs joined Protiviti Inc. as a managing director in the company's business risk practice. Working out of the company's Salt Lake City and San Francisco locations, he leads Protiviti's financial reporting risk services group for the Western region, where he assists clients' boards and senior management with financial transactions and accounting matters. Prior to joining Protiviti, he was a senior partner at another accounting firm and worked nearly 20 years at another. He has degrees from Brigham Young University.

- Jerald V. Hale has joined the law firm of Winder & Haslam as an associate. Hale practices in insurance defense, real estate, construction law, criminal law and business litigation. His background includes a degree from the University of Utah, working in a county attorney's office in Arizona, and serving as editor in chief of the Journal of Law & Family Studies and staff member of the Journal of Contemporary Law.

- Lee A. Killian has joined the law firm of Clyde Snow as associate. Her main areas of practice include civil practice, family law and litigation. Her background includes a degree from the University of Utah.